Risk factors for atrial fibrillation in a hypertensive cohort. Although several risk factors for atrial fibrillation (AF) have been identified, the influence of many factors remains unknown. The aim of this study was to identify the risk factors for AF in a well-characterized cohort of hypertensive patients. A case-control study was performed in 103 hypertensive patients with AF and in 103 matched hypertensive controls. There were no significant differences in age, sex, body mass index (BMI), and mean systolic and diastolic blood pressure between patients with AF and controls. The presence of AF significantly increased the risk of stroke (odds ratio [OR] 2.4; 95% confidence interval [CI] 1.2 to 4.8; P=0.01). The risk was higher in patients with coronary artery disease (OR 3.4; 95% CI 1.7 to 7.2; PQ: Pandas Multiprocessing/Multiprocessing Pool: how to detect when an operation on an element of a group is done? I am using Pandas' built-in multiprocessing features for the first time, and I am trying to understand how things work. To do so, I would like to understand how the for-loop below works. First, how does the number of iterations per step decide the number of processes? Then, where are all the data parallel operations done, in this case data in parallel? The reason why I am confused is that I don't see any data parallelism here. import pandas as pd import time N = 10 data = [0,1,2,3,4,5,6,7,8,9] df = pd.DataFrame(data=data, columns
