Q: How to change "publish state" to "Published" on Visual Studio 2017 Community I have a Visual Studio 2017 Community and have a web project. On my local machine I can open it from the localhost and the website works. I can publish it by right-clicking on the project, choosing "Publish to Local IIS". It then shows in the VS2017 project explorer as "Installed", but when I use my web hosting provider, which also runs VS2017, I right-click the project and choose "Publish to IIS", and it gives me an error: Cannot find the path 'c:\inetpub\wwwroot\publish' because it does not exist. My question is, how do I set up VS2017 so that it publishes to IIS as "Published"? (I have used this site before and followed the instructions to setup "Publish" in VS2017 Community.) A: I have tried all the solutions found in this thread and have been struggling to do this for over a month (Oct 2017). You must have the publish verb to the folder in the local publish settings. However, this requires editing the publish script using something like notepad. I've been trying different combinations but can't find the proper combination to make this work. I was able to get it to work with following my advice from this thread: Hopefully this post helps. A: I have done the same and found a lot of threads. I ended up with this: Open.csproj file in Visual Studio. Change:
