References Category:BiofuelQ: How to get a JSON from a Javascript function using Pusher I'm using the Pusher Framework to connect to a Ruby on Rails API. I want to be able to send a javascript function to the server from the browser that will return a JSON, but I'm not sure how to access the returned JSON. I'm having trouble figuring out how to get the parameter into the controller. This is my javascript: `$(document).ready(function () { function myFunction(data) { $.ajax({ url: "", method: 'POST', data: JSON.stringify({ city: data.city, state: data.state, zip: data.zip, phone: data.phone }) }).done(function (data) { window.alert(data.city); }); }); myFunction({ city: "St Louis", state: "MO", zip: "64108", phone: "(314) 478-1188" }); });` I want the output to be the JSON that is returned from the server. A: It looks like the variable data in your ajax callback will contain the JSON response. Try something like: `data: JSON.stringify({ city: data.city, state: data.state, zip: data.zip, phone: data.phone })`, Then access the result from the callback: `var response = JSON.parse(data);` Ashenrim Ashenrim was an Anglo-Saxon kingdom in the area of the East Anglia which corresponds to the current counties of Norfolk and Suffolk in England. It appears in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle only in the year 908, at the time of the death of Edward ba244e880a
