Read more Profit and cost comparisons of a statewide telemedicine system in Vermont. Telemedicine technology has been widely used to support primary care for rural and underserved populations. Prior studies have shown that telemedicine systems provide timely, cost-effective primary care, but few have compared costs and benefits across systems. We assessed the cost-effectiveness of a statewide telemedicine system in Vermont. We developed a computer model to simulate a statewide telemedicine system in a primary care network in Vermont. We estimated benefits of the system over a 5-year period. We included total costs of the telemedicine system, benefits to patients and providers, and total health care cost savings to the state. From the state perspective, the system resulted in a 13% savings in per capita costs of primary care; from the patient perspective, the system reduced total health care spending by $180 per person. The system reduced per capita health care spending by 11% in 2003. Vermont is among the first states to demonstrate that a telemedicine system can result in substantial savings in state per capita health care costs.

While using Windows BitLocker Drive Encryption you may face a problem after moving your encrypted volume to a different location where the file system encryption is not activated, and therefore the BitLocker protection is disabled. You can check whether you are in such a situation and enable BitLocker protection again in this way: Disable and remove the user account: Log into the Windows system in normal mode (no BitLocker) using your Microsoft account. Click Start > Settings > Update and security > Forgot your password. Click on Continue and follow the on-screen instructions to create a new user account or the forgotten password. Log into your PC as the new user account you just created. Disable the BitLocker protection in the User Accounts dialog: Click Start > Settings > BitLocker drive encryption. Click on the BitLocker settings and select either Allow bitLocker to manage this device or Allow bitLocker to manage this device (your PC will be unprotected in this case). Check BitLocker in the list on the left side of the window. Click OK. Delete all temporary files: Click Start > Settings > Windows Update. Select Show update history. Select View update history to open the history. Go through the history and find the KB 3003212 update. Select the update. Select the Update (Apply all pending updates). Select OK to begin the installation. Remove the temporary files: Click Start > Settings > System > Advanced System Settings > Performance. Select Settings > Recovery. Select Go to Advanced Recovery Options. Select Recovery Settings to open the advanced recovery settings window. Select System Restore, and then click Next. Select a restore point, and then click Next. Select a restore point from the list. Select System Restore, and then click Finish. Double-click Windows Store, and then click Uninstall.
