A Guide for Connecting Cricut Joy to Computer [Windows/Mac]

Connecting Cricut Joy to computer but unsure how to do this? No worries; I've got your back! Initially, setting up a Cricut machine can be challenging. I also went through the same problem. Luckily, in my case, I got some help from my friend, who was a pro-Cricut user. But everyone might not be as lucky as me, so I decided to help you connect a Cricut machine to your device.

Since I have been crafting with Cricut for many years, I am experienced enough to guide you through the Cricut machine setup. In this blog, I am only talking about how to connect Cricut Joy to the computer of your choice. You must know that Cricut software is only compatible with Windows and MacBook, so we will only connect the device to a computer. Let's explore this blog further to learn more about it.

Connecting Cricut Joy to Computer via Bluetooth

Before you start establishing the connection, make sure you have located your Cricut machine within 10 to 15 feet of your computer. Then, you can start following the steps further:

Windows

1. You will need to move to the Start menu and choose Settings.

Afterward, you should select Devices.

FAQs

Question 1: How do I connect Cricut Joy to Android?

Answer: Below are the steps to connect your Cricut product to Android using Bluetooth:

- 1. Ensure your Cricut machine is powered on.
- 2. Keep a distance of up to 10−15 between your Cricut and Android phone.
- 3. After that, you need to head to Settings.
- 4. In the settings, you have to find the Bluetooth and turn it on.

- 5. Once Bluetooth is on. Wait until your device detects the Cricut model.
- 6. When your machine appears, click on it to pair it.

Question 2: Does Cricut Joy connect via a USB cable?

Answer: No, Cricut Joy doesn't have a USB port. Hence, you can't connect it using a wired USB cable. The only option left is to connect it wirelessly, meaning use Bluetooth. This is the best option for you as you don't have to deal with clumsy wires. Connect wirelessly, but make sure you are not exceeding the distance of more than 15 feet between your Cricut and your computer or mobile phone.

Question 3: Do I need Cricut Design Space to connect Cricut Joy?

Answer: You will need the Cricut Design Space software only when you want to use your Cricut Joy for any type of operation. However, while building a connection between a computer and a Cricut machine, the Cricut software plays no role. You just need a compatible device with a Bluetooth-enabled feature to connect your Cricut product. You can also connect your Joy to your phone.
